Mosaics are an ancient decorative art form that consists of creating an image or intricate pattern out of small pieces of stone, glass or marble. Each mosaic is hand crafted from the same materials that have been used for centuries. The stone, marble and handmade glass (known as smalti) are sourced from Italian workshops that have been producing these beautiful materials for hundreds of years.

Mosaics are extremely hard wearing and are suited both for indoor and outdoor use. The designs are bespoke, made to your individual specifications and tailored to your needs and budget.

Whether used purely as decoration i.e. Murals, walkways or as functional pieces such as shower enclosures, wet room linings, kitchen splash-backs, work surfaces etc, they will add a beautiful and unique focal point to your home or working environment.

Mosaic activities are very well suited for education and community work and can involve groups from the concept stage through to the final production. Children and adults of all ages and abilities can meaningfully participate in these projects.*

A hugely satisfying and rewarding experience for all involved, the resulting piece is a very tangible result of the work involved and will be hard wearing and beautiful in all weathers (mosaics look very good when wet, a bonus in the English climate!)
